Section 1194.21 Software Applications and Operating Systems - Detail Voluntary Product Accessibility Template

Criteria

Supporting Features

Remarks and Explanations

(a) When software is designed to run on a system that has a keyboard, product functions shall be executable from a keyboard where the function itself or the result of performing a function can be discerned textually.

Fully supported:

All NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 controls that accept focus provide keyboard support.

(b) Applications shall not disrupt or disable activated features of other products that are identified as accessibility features, where those features are developed and documented according to industry standards. Applications also shall not disrupt or disable activated features of any operating system that are identified as accessibility features where the application programming interface for those accessibility features has been documented by the manufacturer of the operating system and is available to the product developer.

Fully supported:

Infragistics NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 enables individuals to customize their desktop elements, including resizing and rearranging controls and choosing color, size, and format options.

Infragistics NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 does not disrupt or disable accessibility features of the operating system. The toolset allows developers to customize the look and feel of components on a form so that they are usable by people using assistive technologies. The customization required for assistive technologies must be implemented by the developer using NetAdvantage for WPF 2007, depending on the specific application requirements and objectives.

(c) A well-defined on-screen indication of the current focus shall be provided that moves among interactive interface elements as the input focus changes. The focus shall be programmatically exposed so that Assistive Technology can track focus and focus changes.

Supported with minor exceptions:

Infragistics NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 provides a well-defined on-screen indication of the current focus that moves among interactive interface elements as the input focus changes with minor exceptions.

Infragistics NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 provides hover styles and selection styles that highlight the position of the focus on the form. Focus rectangles are also used along with the system caret to indicate focus location within NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 elements.

(d) Sufficient information about a user interface element including the identity, operation and state of the element shall be available to Assistive Technology. When an image represents a program element, the information conveyed by the image must also be available in text.

Fully supported:

Infragistics NetAdvantage for WPF 2007 provides sufficient information about user interface elements and program elements represented by images available in text in virtually all cases.

Note to AT Users: Upon the release of software upgrades, there is often a lag between the software release date and the time it takes for some Assistive Technology vendors to upgrade their software and device drivers to support the new releases. The vendor's porting timeframe may be a factor in determining when you decide to upgrade to take advantage of new features. Microsoft provides the software code within its products to make those products "ready" for the AT devices and works closely with AT vendors in an effort to decrease time to market for new versions of AT products. Microsoft encourages both end users and purchasers of AT to contact their AT vendor to determine the current compatibility of their AT with Microsoft products.
